New York State Department of Transportation (NYSDOT) officials have notified the City staff that a consultant contracted by NYSDOT will perform a "peak-hour turn-movement study" at the Main Street intersection with the James F. Lettis Highway, beginning on Wednesday, September 19, 2018, and continuing around the clock for several days. The study's duration will depend upon weather conditions.

Video cameras, which will be mounted on 20-foot-tall poles, will be installed at the intersection on or about Tuesday, September 18. NYSDOT officials emphasized that cameras will record only movements of metal objects, and are not capable of identifying pedestrians, motorists, specific vehicles, license plates, etc.
